Hyderabad, India
Dear Colleagues,

In continuation of my earlier communication, I take this opportunity to update details about the 42nd National Conference of Indian Society of Nephrology scheduled to be organized in Hyderabad between December 8 - 11, 2011. Indian Society of Nephrology is hosting this conference in Hyderabad after a gap of 20 years.

The venue of the Conference is finalized. It is to be held at the Hyderabad International Convention Centre (HICC), duly acknowledged as the first state of the art & technologically most advanced convention centre in the entire country. The venue of pre-conference workshop will be in Shilpa Kalavedika Convention Center, which is in close proximity to HICC. Central Organization is planning a good scientific programme and guest lectures of International faculty. The conference is going to be a blend of academic events and cultural activities.

The dinner on 10th December, 2011 is arranged in the grand Chowmahalla Palace, the renovated 18th century Palace, resplendent with its past glory. It was once the seat of the Asaf Jahi dynasty of the Nizams, who ruled a better part of the Deccan for a century & half. Dining on the celestial backdrop of the royal palace will be an experience of lifetime for the conference delegates. This is also a place of UNESCO Heritage Award.

I look forward to welcome you all! Best wishes!

Hyderabad is the capital of Andhra Pradesh, India. It also goes by its sobriquet City of Pearls. As of 2010 it is the sixth most populous city and sixth-most populous urban agglomeration in India. Hyderabad was founded by Muhammad Quli Qutb Shah in 1591 on the banks of Musi. Today the city covers an area of approximately 650 km² the twin cities of Hyderabad and Secunderabad come under the ambit of a single municipal unit, The Greater Hyderabad Municipal Corporation.

Hyderabad has developed into one of the major hubs for the information Technology industry in India which has earned it the additional sobriquet “Cyberabad”. In addition to the IT industry, various biotechnology and pharmaceutics companies have set up their operations in Hyderabad owing to its established Public sector in Life Science Research and Genome Valley.

Charminar is a beautiful and impressive square monument. Each side measures 20 m, and each of the corners has a tall, pointed minaret. These four gracefully carved minarets soar to a height of 48.7 m above the ground, commanding the landscape for miles around. Each minaret has four stories, marked by a delicately carved ring around the minaret. Unlike the Taj Mahal, Charminar’s four fluted minarets of Charminar are built into the main structure. Inside the minarets 149 winding steps guide the visitor to the top floor, the highest point one can reach, which provides a panoramic view of the city.

The 13th century Golconda Fort was built by the Kakatiya kings. The existing structure was later built by Qutub Shahi Kings into a massive fort with granite walls having eight gates and 87 bastions spread up to 7 km, in circumference over a span of 62 years. Golconda Fort, popularly known in Telgu as “Golla Konda”, which means “Shepherd’s Hill”, has an exotic story behind it. In 1143, on the rocky hill known as ‘Mangalavaram’, a shepherd boy came across an image and conveyed to the Kakatiya king, who was ruling at that time. The 10km long road from Golconda to outer Hyderabad was a fantastic market selling jewellery, diamonds, pearls and other gems, popular in all over the world.

The Salarjung Museum is the third largest museum in India housing the biggest one-man collections of antiques in the world. It is well known throughout India for its prized collections belonging to different civilizations dating back to the 1st century. Nawab Mir Yousuf Ali Khan Salar Jung III (1889-1949), former Prime Minister of the seventh Nizam of Hyderabad, spent a substantial amount of his income over thirty five years to make this priceless collection, his life’s passion. The collections left behind in his ancestral palace, ‘Diwan Deodi’ were formerly exhibited there as a private museum which was inaugurated by Jawaharlal Nehru in 1951.

Ramoji Film City (RFC) is the world’s largest integrated film studio complex at over 2,000 acres (8.1 km²) of land. It is also a popular tourism and recreation centre, containing both natural and artificial attractions including an amusement park. It is situated near Hayathnagar and Peddamberpet on Hyderabad - Vijayawada, NH9 highway, about 25 km South-East of Hyderabad. The Outer Ring Road Phase 2 has acquired lands at the entrance and is set to intersect the city.

Birla Mandir The temple is built on a 280 feet (85 m) high hillock called the Naubath Pahad on a 13 acres (53,000 m²) plot. The construction took 10 years and was consecrated in 1976 by Swami Ranganathananda of Ramakrishna Mission. The temple does not have traditional bells, as Swamiji wished that the temple atmosphere should be conducive for meditation. The Birla Foundation has constructed several similar temples in India, all of which are known as Birla Mandir. The temple manifests a blend of South Indian, Rajasthani and Utka temple architectures. In its entirety, it is made of 2000 tons of pure Rajasthani white Marble.
About Indian Society of Nephrology

The Indian Society of Nephrology was born when 10 like-minded and strong-willed individuals sat together on a balmy day in Mumbai (then Bombay) in 1970.

Since its inception, the Society has focused on the advancement of education and practice aimed towards improving care of patients with kidney diseases.

The Society has continuously provided a platform for dissemination and sharing of scientific exchange amongst professionals interested in the study of kidney and its diseases in the country. In the early years, the ISN meetings were held along with those of the Association of Physicians of India. That changed in 1991, with the organization of the first independent Annual ISNCON at Jaipur.

The Indian Society of Nephrology currently has over 950 members. A vast majority of the members are Nephrologists, but we have increasing representation of other Specialist, such as Transplant Surgeons, Pathologists and basic scientists which help widen the base of the Society.

The Society collaborates closely with other like-minded societies such as the International Society of Nephrology and the Asian-Pacific Society of Nephrology for a closer International integration.
